Greetings,

We received an email that the event at Loudon Park's Confederate Hill Baltimore, MD has been cancelled.

If you are planning on attending another event for Lee-Jackson Day, please take pictures so we can share with other members for the next Parapet Chronicles.

2019 Lee-Jackson Birthday Commemoration at Loudon Park's Confederate Hill

CANCELED DUE TO DETERIORATING WEATHER CONDITIONS THIS WEEKEND

Compatriots, Friends, Ladies and Gentlemen,

I have been watching weather forecast today and this evening and the situation does not bode well for our annual Lee-Jackson Birthday Commemoration at Confederate Hill this coming Saturday. While the weather forecast is good for Friday, it deteriorates precipitously for Saturday afternoon when our event would be getting underway. I visited Confederate Hill this afternoon and the snow is modest on the Hill, but there is a prediction of possibly more on Thursday night and for rain and snow on Saturday afternoon with temperature reaching only 35 degrees. It is therefore with regret that I'm 'pulling the plug' on the celebratory social for this year.

Kindly pass the word of this cancellation to any friends you know who are not on this mailing list but may have been planning on attending this annual soiree.

While there will be no event on Confederate Hill Saturday, there will be a floral tribute to the Generals at the site of the Lee-Jackson Monument in Wyman Park.

With my compliments,

John Zebelean

Commander
